

One hundred years of French lingerie at Pierre Cardin

exhibition Aubade, Barbara, Lise Charmel, Lou, Implicite... until July 26, the most beautiful names in French lingerie will be revealing their secrets at the Espace Pierre Cardin as part of this irresistible retrospective. A century of French design, expertise and ingenious innovations is on show, including the girdle, the very first bras, and intelligent lingerie that remembers the shape of your body. Covering 100 years of lingerie in France, the exhibition features items from a range of different periods, including memorable advertisements from the last few decades. The highlight of the display is a life-size "transhistorical holographic striptease" which allows you to visualize the development of the female figure over the years. One of the most titillating exhibitions of the moment.
